A new art exhibition explores the social fabric of a city struggling to regain its glorious past. Buro 24/7 Middle East has the details...

The Third Line is set to present Egyptian artist Huda Lutfi's second solo exhibition in Dubai, Magnetic Bodies: Imaging the Urban. A multi-disciplinary show that includes photographs, installations, sculptures and videos, the exhibition is Lutfi's personal interpretation of modern Cairo as both artist and historian, metaphorically delving into the deep social issues of the once thriving city.

For almost a decade, Lutfi has heavily employed the use of dolls in her works and more recently has also incorporated photo collages with the realisation of the need to document the ever-changing landscape. All of the elements have combined in this latest showcase to create a surreal city landscape, and with both new and recent projects on display, the exhibition culminates in a comprehensive view of Cairo.

Magnetic Bodies: Imaging the Urban by Huda Lutfi will run from April 25-June 4, 2016, at The Third Line, Al Serkal Avenue, Dubai.
