

HOMEPAGE

AGENDA

ARTS

LITERATURE

CULTURE AND SOCIETY

TRAVEL

FEATURES

WALLS SEPARATE WORLDS

BABELMED ARAB WORLD

MUZZIKA!

News

- 2nd edition of the JJEM– Young Journalists in the Mediterranean - competition
- On the Front Line. Women Photojournalists in War Zones
- EBTICAR-Média 2015: pre-selection of 22 projects
- Home Workspace Program in Beirut
- MyMed, a civic project for young artists in the Mediterranean
- From ancient Greece, a message for euro-skeptics

Arts / Palestine / The Jerusalem of Palestinian Artists

The Jerusalem of Palestinian Artists

Marie MMina

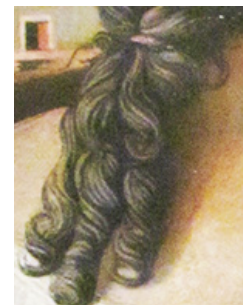

All born in Jerusalem, they are part of the first generation of artists. Some portray the city they have always lived in. Others, in exile, lay on a canvas their childhood memories or their claims.

Ranging from figurative to abstract style, from the 60's to the 80's, "Jerusalem, Lexicon of Colours" collects works with various styles and from different periods, where the Israeli occupation of East Jerusalem in 1967 marks a fracture.

The exhibition begins with the watercolours of Sophie Halaby (1912-1998), one of the first Palestinian painters to receive formal training in the arts. Her Jerusalem full of domes and cacti basks in soft colours. In her landscapes the city appears from afar, always surrounded by vegetation. When this artist - who has always lived in Jerusalem - paints "The golden door from the Gethsemane gardens" the delicate green of the olive trees dominates the ochre of the Old City walls.

Salvator...

subscribe to our NEWSLETTER

Books

- Positive Lebanon
- "The history of relations between Jews and Muslims, from its origins to the present day"
- The Nazi threat in Greece: Golden Dawn
- In Ramallah, Running Guy Mannes-Abbott
- In the white town A web-documentary paying tribute to Casablancans.
- To Algeria With Love
- Footnotes in Gaza by Joe Sacco
- The World in Alphabetical Order
- Hrant Dink's First And Only Book Is Published
- Tomorrow will be worse, Amira Hass

Features

- Mediterranean territories
- Islam in Italy
- We are All Gaza